

19th June 2009

MRWED crowned with Australian Business Award

Australia's largest provider of trainer training, Queensland-based MRWED Training and Assessment, has received a 2009 Australian Business Award, recognising its strong business model, engaging training programs, and commercial success.

The national awards selected MRWED after it found the company demonstrated leadership and strategy, impact on industry, adaptability and sustainability, human resource management, customer relationship management, process management and evidence of success.

MRWED received the Australian Business Award in the Enterprise category.

MRWED provides global trainer training courses that are used by CEOs and human resource managers through to frontline managers and leading hands on the art of engaging and training others.

Recently, MRWED Founder and Principal Marc Ratcliffe was named as one of the world's Top 10 Young Trainers of the Year by Training Magazine (USA). MRWED was also recently named as one of the Top 10 places to work in Australia by BRW magazine.

Mr Ratcliffe said the award acknowledged the substantial growth the company had experienced, with demand for MRWED's custom courses jumping 25% during the past six months alone.

"Whether it is during economic booms and downturns, Australian businesses are increasingly realising the benefits of properly upskilling their trainers. Skilled trainers can teach, enthuse and empower whole workforces to work more efficiently and more successfully," he said.

"Our focus has been on creating a certificate, diploma, and custom course which are not only relevant for people who deliver training, but also flexible and engaging. Some of our courses are delivered face-to-face, while others are done online or through correspondence."

Headquartered in South East Queensland, MRWED Training and Assessment is a private Australian Registered Training Organisation (RTO) specialising in trainer training. Established in the year 2000, MRWED has since trained more than 12,000 Australians in training and assessor qualifications.

ENDS. For more information contact:
Matthew Hart, BBS, 07 3221 6711